Anchorage, the largest city in Alaska with 300 000 inhabitants, is a city immersed in wild nature with beautiful landscapes of snow-capped mountains, glaciers and fjords.

Anchorage is an ideal starting point to travel to the different parks in Alaska, including Denali National Park or Nelchina Public Use Area, where you may encounter grizzly bears and elk. You can also go on excursions to the famous Chugah mountains. Anchorage is also an excellent base for fishing enthusiasts. In fact salmon fishing is one of the main activities in Alaska. Not far from Anchorage are Campbell Point Lake, Jewel Lake and Eklutna Lake, all good fishing spots.
